Severe Weather Awareness Week, Saturday, February 9 - SkyWarn

"SKYWARN TM" is a program the NWS uses to improve severe storm warnings. Trained volunteers serve as storm spotters...passing on vital "ground truth" information to forecasters during severe weather episodes. They are the eyes and ears not only for forecasters, but for their whole community.

SKYWARN TM volunteers come from all walks of life but they all have generally two things in common...an interest in the weather, and an interest in serving their community.
